

EXTREME WEAKNESS AND SUFFERING

Read How Mrs. Goodling got Relief and Strength.

York, Pa.—"I have used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and found it to be all you say it is. I was so sick that I could not stand at my sink to wash dishes and I could not sit without a pillow under me. I had the doctor every few days but since I have taken the Compound I don't have to send for him. I have had three children and could not raise any of them, but since I have taken the Compound I have a bright baby boy. I advise every suffering woman to try it and get relief. It has done wonders for me."—MRS. CATHERINE GOODLING, 138 E. King Street, York, Pa.

When a medicine has been successful in bringing health to so many, no woman has a right to say without trying it, "I do not believe it will help me." There must be more than a hundred thousand women in this country who, like Mrs. Goodling, have proven what wonders Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound can do for weak and ailing women. Try it and see for yourself.

If there are any complications you don't understand, write Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass.

TRIPLE TRAGEDY ON LONE FARM

Bodies of Mother, Daughter and Son Found, Each with Wounds in Head

LATTER SUPPOSED TO HAVE DONE SHOOTING

Henry Gilmore Is Supposed to Have Been Insane — Double-Barreled Shot
Gun and Three Empty Shells Found by His Side.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Sept. 29. — The dead bodies of three persons, mother, daughter and son, with shot gun wounds in the head of each, were found yesterday afternoon in one room of a lonely farm house in Tolland, a sparsely settled town in the southwestern part of Hampden county near the Connecticut line. Henry W. Jordan, an 84-years-old farmer of Tolland, discovered the bodies when he went to the house to borrow a gun. The dead persons, who were the only inhabitants of the house, are Mrs. Helen Gilmore, about 60; her daughter, Miss Anna Gilmore, about 23; and her son, Edward, about 27.

Both women were undressed and in bed. The body of the son, clothed only in a pair of trousers, lay on the floor near the door. A double-barreled shot gun and three empty shells were at his side. The top of the son's head was blown off, and the two other members of the family had been shot through the head. The shooting is supposed to have taken place early yesterday morning.

The only explanation of the crime current in Tolland last night was that the son, Edward, had shot his mother and sister in a fit of insanity and had then killed himself. Last week, Elias Gilmore, brother of the late Rufus Gilmore, husband of Mrs. Helen Gilmore, and Miss Lydia Gilmore, about 30, a sister of Edward Gilmore, were taken to the Northampton hospital for the insane. Edward Gilmore was employed at the factory of the William E. Gilbert clock company at Winsted, Conn., and went to Tolland a few days ago to dispose of the stock on the farm and to bring his mother and sister to live with him.

The cattle and other stock on the place were sold last Saturday to Charles Soules of New Boston for $425. In Edward Gilmore's pocket yesterday was found over $600. The Gilmore children were all born in Tolland, where Rufus Gilmore died last spring. Dr. Ward of New Boston viewed the bodies. The authorities of Westfield were notified of the crime last evening.

It is thought that the motive for the shooting may have been Edward Gilmore's desire to have his mother and That's what they all say the very first time they use "GETS-IT." It's because "GETS-IT" is so simple and easy to use—put it on in a few seconds because there is no work or corn-fooling to do, no pain that shoots up to your heart. It gets your corns off your mind. All the time it's working—and then, that little old corn peels right off, leaving the clean, corn-free skin underneath—and your corn is gone. No wonder millions prefer "GETS-IT." Try it tonight.

sister move to Winsted and their unwillingness to do so. The son had recently paid a month's rent to Col. Home of Winsted for an apartment for himself and his mother and sister. Medical Examiner E. S. Smith of Westfield viewed the bodies late last evening and turned them over to Undertaker Gibbons of Granville. The mother had a wound under her right ear; the daughter was shot through the left eye, and the entire left side of the son's head was shot away.

SOUTH NEWFANE.

Leaves Many Warm Friends Here.

Dr. Hanson, a sketch of whose life follows, made his first visit to this village more than 40 years ago. Since the coming of the summer colony, with Mrs. Hanson, he has been a guest of their brother-in-law, E. Milton Dexter, at various times, and has left many warm friends among local residents: Dr. Sanford Hanson, one of the oldest physicians and a distinguished citizen of Somerville, Mass., died Wednesday morning, Sept. 20, at his home, No. 1 Webster street, Somerville, Mass. He had not been in good health for some time and during the last few weeks frequently suffered severely with heart trouble. The end came peacefully. He leaves his wife, Mrs. Beulah A. Hanson, a daughter, Mrs. Herbert Brooks Crosby, of Melrose Highlands, and two grandchildren.

Sunday afternoon there was a prayer service at the house at 1:30 and the funeral was held at 2:30 in Grace Baptist church, of which he had long been an attendant. Rev. William H. Davis, pastor, conducted the services and the Lotus male quartet sang. The regular service was followed by the Grand Army service conducted by Willard C. Kinsley post. There were delegations from the Loyal Legion, Soley lodge of Masons, the supreme council of the Royal Arcanum, Excelsior council, of which Dr. Hanson was a member, and other organizations. The burial took place in Oak Grove cemetery, Medford.

Dr. Hanson was born in Albion, Me., in 1841. He entered Colby college in 1862 and left at the end of his freshman year to enter the Union army. He served with honor as lieutenant and adjutant of the Eleventh Maine regiment, and was in active service at Appomattox on the morning of the day of the surrender of Gen. Robert E. Lee. After the war he entered Harvard medical school, graduated in 1868, and in 1869 located in Somerville, where he had since lived and practiced his profession.

In 1885 he was given the degree of A. M., from Colby college. At the time of his death he was medical examiner-in-chief of the Royal Arcanum, having served in that capacity since 1896. Dr. Hanson took deep interest in public affairs and served with conspicuous ability on the Somerville school committee for 19 years. The Sanford Hanson school building was named in his honor. He served for several years as a public library trustee and was a member of various fraternal organizations. In referring to the passing of Dr. Hanson, the Somerville Journal (from which mainly this sketch is condensed) says: "He closed his eyes, and the brave spirit which had met the exigencies of a lifetime and been an inspiration to others, passed away."

The members, who were not present missed one of the best meetings held. Miss Elizabeth Braley was elected delegate to attend the state meeting of the association in October in Fair Haven. The next meeting will be Oct. 20, and all members are requested to be present.

WARDSBORO.

A Woman Buttermaker.

The following interesting article is from the New England Homestead. It was accompanied by pictures of Miss Halonen and the Wardsboro creamery:

"When the Grange lecturers of the six New England states recently convened in Vermont they were treated to an address by Miss Hannah Halonen, lecturer of Wardsboro Grange and butter maker of the farmers' creamery of that town. She is very keenwitted and has a great fund of practical ideas. Miss Halonen is the only woman buttermaker in a creamery in New England, if not in the United States. She makes over 40,000 pounds of butter a year and a great deal of it is sold by parcel post in Massachusetts.

"Miss Halonen was educated in a creamery school in Finland, and came to America 18 years ago and has been at Wardsboro 16 years. Miss Halonen said in Finland people had the impression that all one had to do in America was to walk along the streets and pick up money. She has never had the heart to write back and tell them it is not so. New England would benefit greatly by finding out what people who come here from foreign countries are prepared to do. In her own case, not having friends here and unable to speak English, she was obliged to do housework when she had a diploma from one of the government creamery schools of Finland."

Commercial or Checking Banks

In the last articles we considered some of the outstanding features of savings banks. This time we begin our discussion of the commercial or checking bank. Of a savings bank one might say that it receives money and lends it to borrowers, either directly or indirectly. But this is far from telling the story about the commercial bank. The money deposited in such a bank as THE VERMONT NATIONAL forms only a part of the assets which go to make up the bank's credit which it issues to borrowers, sometimes in the form of circulating notes or bills payable to bearer, but often in the form of book entries transferable by check. Bank notes or bank bills as they are sometimes called, are the bank's promises to pay money to the bearer on demand. They are virtually orders of the president and cashier on the paying teller. But they are of the same nature and operate in exactly the same manner as checks drawn by depositors. Both are lawful demands upon the bank's cash reserve. And both must be paid on demand. No thirty days—not even thirty minutes. Every demand made upon the bank must be met at once, or the bank
